LOVING THE LIFE YOU LIVE, BY SEEING THE GOOD
BETWEEN THE CHAOS.

HEATHER MARGIOTTA

Heather Margiotta is a Christian Writer and Speaker from northeast Ohio. She is a wife to a loving husband and a mother to two handsome sons. She received a bachelors degree in Theology and passionately believes that Jesus wants us all to love the life He has blessed us with, even during the chaotic seasons.

THE BLOG

Since 2016 HeatherMargiotta.com has been covering the topics of adoption, relationships, spiritual growth, and grief.

Adoption: Heather and her husband have fostered over 40 children and adopted their oldest son through the foster care system. James 1:27 calls all believers of Jesus to care for the orphans and her goal is to share their experiences so that others may want to care for the orphans themselves.

Relationships: Whether it's marriage/dating, parenting, family, or friendships, they all play a pivotal role in our lives. Heather believes they are a key part of life and why Jesus placed us here on this earth.

Spiritual Growth: As a follower of Jesus, Heather believes no matter how long we have known Him, we never stop growing and we never stop learning. He sustains us through all seasons of life and she hopes to share more of who He is with you.

Grief: When Heather was 23 she lost her best friend, her brother, tragically to a drug overdose. She hopes to shed light on the hard path grief takes you through and how Jesus shows up in the darkest hour.
